WORLD PEACE MEETING GETS GOING SLOWLY

MOLOTOV BLOCKS SELECTION OF CHAIRMAN

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

San Francisco, April 26 (AP) — Soviet Commissar Molotov gave public assurances today that a burning Polish controversy will be solved. But he dimmed this bright outlook of the United Nations Conference by blocking immediate election of Secretary of State Stettinius as its permanent chairman.

Molotov held out for four chairmanships, one for each of the sponsoring powers—Russia, Britain, China and the United States.

No Easy Question

Speaking on the Polish issue a few minutes before Conference delegates began streaming into San Francisco's opera house for their first business session, the Russian foreign chief told an army of reporters:

"I may assure you that the government of the United States, Russia and the United Kingdom are doing all in their power to solve this question. Of course, it isn't an easy question.

"There is an excellent decision on the question adopted at the Crimea conference. We shall carry it out and facilitate the solution of the problem."

Earlier, Premier Stalin had communicated his latest views on Poland to the Russian delegation. It was Stalin who drew up the decisions in the Crimea with the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Compromise Accepted

A "Steering Committee," made up of chiefs of delegations, was supposed to have nominated a conference chairman this morning. One delegate reported that, in accordance with the custom of selecting the leader of the host country's representatives for that honor, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain at once proposed Stettinius.

Then, the delegate said, this is what happened:

The Russian put in a request for four chairmen.

A compromise was advanced that would let the Big Four chiefs preside in turn at plenary sessions of the Conference, and this was accepted unanimously, as was Eden's proposal that Stettinius become chairman of the steering and executive committee.

The Big Four retired into a huddle to talk over the arrangements. When they came back, Molotov amazed the meeting by moving adjournment—since, he said, no agreements had been reached.

That didn't jibe with what many delegates understood, but they agreed to call things quits until tomorrow morning to end the confusion.

Big Grand Rapids Factory Caves In; No Employes Hurt

Grand Rapids, April 26 (AP)—A seven-story section of one of a series of buildings in the block-long Sligh Furniture Company plant caved in tonight, from the roof through to the basement, causing damage of several thousands of dollars. Several employes, scattered throughout other parts of the factory, escaped injury. The buildings have been used for storage space in the past few years, since the firm, famed for bedroom furniture, abandoned manufacturing.

Naha Defense Lines Broken By Americans

BY CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

American 24th Army Corps infantrymen with battleship and cruiser gunfire support have secured high ground positions in the Japanese secondary pillbox line defending the city of Naha on southern Okinawa.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said today (Friday) the Yanks moved forward to take heights east of the village of Urasoe Mura while the naval guns destroyed a number of Japanese artillery emplacements.

In the Philippines 24th division doughboys punched closer to the Japanese stronghold at Davao city with a 12-mile advance Wednesday across southern Mindanao Island, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

Premier Kantaro Suzuki in Tokyo urged the Nipponese fighters on Okinawa, only 325 miles south of Japan's homeland, to use suicidal "human bullet" tactics against the hammering Yanks of the Seventh, 27th and 96th divisions.

Baguio Blasted

But the Americans have taken the enemy's first line of defense in the fighting above Naha, caital of the island, and are slugging into the second line.

Nimitz said that navy carrier planes and search aircraft hit Japanese shipping and installations in the Sakishima group, south of Okinawa; off the east coast of Kyishu, southernmost home island of Japan, and at Yap and Wake Island.

Thirty-third division troops maintained pressure on the stubborn Japanese defenders of Baguio, Philippine summer caital in the mountains of northern Luzan, MacArthur's communique said, while American bombers blasted the enemy with 400 tons of explosives.

Allied planes hit Japanese [illegible] fields and installations at Formosa and the Pescadores Islands, and southern along the Asia coast from Hong Kong to French Indo-China.

Other aircraft struck at Borneo, destroying Japanese-held oil facilities at Miri on the northwest coast and sinking a freighter. Nipponese warehouses were blown up in an aerial attack on Soerabaya, Java.

American Superforts from Marianas fields hit eight airdromes on Kyushu and Shikoku Islands yesterday in continuation of the aerial campaign to knock out military aviation facilities in southern Japan. It was the first call by the B-29s on Shikoku.

BABIES PERISH AS HOME BURNS

Blaze Follows Blast In Hastings Residence; Mother Shopping

Hastings, Mich., April 26 (AP)—Two small children were burned to death this afternoon when a fire swept through the home of Mrs. Herman Neil.

The victims were Arthur R. Neil, 3½, son of Mrs. Neil, and Robert Cooley, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Cooley.

James Neil, 9, who escaped from the blazing house, suffered severe burns. He was reported in a serious condition at Pennoc hospital.

Mrs. Neil, who attempted to enter the house, sustained burns on her hands and arms.

The children were left alone in the house while Mrs. Neil was shopping at a nearby grocery store. Mrs. Cooley, who made her home with the Neils while her husband was in service, was at work.

The cause of the blaze, which destroyed half of the house, has not yet been determined, but witnesses said the fire followed an explosion. The small frame house was heated by a stove.

James Neil, who leaped from a window, ran down the street with his clothes ablaze. Neighbors caught him and extinguished the fire from his clothing.

Hausfraus Hang Red Flags As Russians Reach Inner Reich

With The U. S. First Army, April 26. (AP)—German housewives have quit hanging out white surrender flags. They are dangling red bed ticks from windows and stringing up red blankets on clotheslines.

Even red stockings, and red unmentionables, are hung out to show the pacifistic attitude of German householders as Russian troops sweep on toward the Mulde River.

Legislature Adjourns; School Aid Approved

BY JACK I. GREEN

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The 1945 legislature adjourned shortly after midnight (CWT) tonight as the house of representatives knuckled under to a senate refusal to attach a contingency clause to the $60,000,000 school aid bill.

The house yielded to the senate by a vote of 53 to 17 about 12 hours after its scheduled adjournment. House members heeded pleas that if they did not yield, schools would receive no state aid and a special session of the legislature would required in June to fill the gap.

After two conference committees failed to agree, senate leaders said they would refuse to give in to a house proposal to guarantee the schools their full $60,000,000 if state revenues next year exceed $162,000,000.

The $60,000,000 grant included a $3,200,000 allowance for the Teachers' Retirement Fund.

Conferring with Gov. Kelly, senate leaders promised to stand fast, leaving the house the alternative of backing down or adjourning without agreement on the bill. Then it would go undecided until the sine die adjournment June 7.

The only other major issue which has separated the lawmakers was resolved this afternoon when the house rejected a proposed $4,000,000 grant sought by urban legislators.

All other budget bills were passed, balancing the 1945-46 budget at $162,000,000 They appropriated $18,000,000 from this year's surpluses.

The legislature took $900,000 off the appropriations for state-supported schools and colleges as one part of its budget-balancing program.

That program cost the University of Michigan $300,000 less than it sought, a total of $5,867,451, or $263,000 more than it spent this year; Michigan State college, $100,000 less than it sought, a total of $3,986,898, $526,000 more than it spent this year; and Wayne university and the junior colleges, $500,000 less than thety sought, but still their first share of state funds.

The legislators, assured that they would not have to finance another $4,000,000 grant for cities and townships, boosted the deficiency bill $24,000 to provide equipment for the Newberry State hospital. It also provided that institution with a $67,000 new farm barn.

SENATE VOTES PRISON INQUIRY

Inmates Who Refuse To Testify Shipped Out To Marquette

Lansing, April 26 (AP) — Under investigation by two agencies now, the Michigan corrections system is the target of a third inquiry voted last night by the Senate.

At the same time, Garrett Heyns, state corrections director, revealed he had ordered four inmates of the Southern Michigan prison transferred summarily to the Marquette Branch prison, sometimes called "Siberia" among convicts.

Heyns would say only the transfers were for "failure to cooperate with prison authorities," but there were reports, which he refused to confirm or deny, that the quartette had refused to testify before Attorney General John R. Dethmers' investigation of the Southern Michigan prison.

A three-member investigation committee was ordered on the motion of Senator Ivan A. Johnston, Mt. Clemens Republican.

The Attorney General already is conducting an investigation of reports of maladministration in the state prison of Southern Michigan, and Governor Kelly is conducting an inquiry into the state parole system as the result of widely publicized criticisms of the parole board by two Detroit judges.

Johnston said there was widespread opposition among jurists and attorneys to the parole system and that "corrective legislation might be necessary." He declined to say whether the proposed Senate committee would go over the same field as Dethmers' probe.

Chinese Check Big Jap Thrust Toward Chinking Air Base

Chungking, April 26 (AP)—Fighting of unabated fury raged tonight 75 miles east of the U. S. 14th Air Force base at Chingking, where the Chinese said they had checked the Japanese advance.

The Japanese were hurrying up reinforcements and attacking repeatedly to try to break in on this western Hunan province base 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

Heavy fighting also was in progress around Yiyang, enemy base on the north flank of this Japanese drive aimed at the heart of free China. The Chinese said the enemy also was held on the south flank.

WAR IN PACIFIC NO BLITZKRIEG

Intelligence Officer Says Nip Cleanup May Take Two More Years

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 26 (AP) —Maj. William Davison, intelligence officer for the 24th division of the U. S. Sixth Army, told regional war manpower commission officials here tonight that the war in the Pacific will probably continue for at least two years.

Major Davison, who was with the 6th Army in the Philippines campaign, declared that the Americans must first establish air bases near Japan and have sufficient forces to hold them, and must cut the Jap-Malay supply line from the Dutch East Indies.

Speed of the Pacific war is limited by the lack of communication facilities since the armies must construct air bases, supply depots and other facilities along with military advances, he said.

The two-day WMC conference called by E. L. Keenan of Cleveland, regional WMC director, is being attended by state and area directors and other key officials from Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Strike Of Handlers Ties Up Lake Boats

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—A strike of 75 freight handlers, members of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) today caused the scheduled sailings of the steamers City of Detroit and City of Cleveland to be cancelled.

The strike began Wednesday, Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. officials said, after demands of the freight handlers for more overtime work on Sundays, were denied.

The men handle gangplanks and mooring lines for incoming passenger ships of the D. & C. Lines.

SOVIETS TAKE BALTIC NAVAL BASE, STETTIN

FINAL LINKUP WITH U. S. FORCES MAY BE COMPLETE

BY ROMNEY WHEELER

London, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Three Soviet armies conquered almost two-thirds of pulverized and encircled Berlin yesterday, seized the Great Baltic Naval Base of Stettin and by Berlin account raced 22 miles west of the blazing German capital to within 14½ miles of a second imminent link-up with American forces on the Elbe river.

Simultaneously, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army captured the great armament center of Bruenn (Brno), second largest city of Czechoslovakia and one of the last great war production cities left to the tottering German war machine.

Elbe Crossed

While four more Berlin districts fell to the Russians, together with the great Goerlitzer railroad depot, Soviet troops far behind the front battled into the western streets of the long-besieged Silesian capital of Breslau, Moscow announced.

As a junction between the Red Army and the American Ninth Army neared due west of Berlin, another historic junction was imminent—if it already had not taken place—southwest of Berlin.

Moscow's nightly war bulletin disclosed that Soviet troops who crossed the Elbe at Riesa had extended their bridgehead, capturing Strehla and Torgau on the water barrier's west bank only 17 miles from American First Army positions on the Mulde river.

Front dispatches from Allied lines said, however, that American patrols had struck deep into the territory between the Elbe and the Mulde.

Compressing a mighty band of steel around perhaps 500,000 Nazi troops trapped in Berlin—and possibly sounding the deathknell—if they are there — for Adolf Hitler, propaganda Minister Goebbels and other high Nazi officials reportedly caught in the Russian trap—massed waves of Soviet armor overran approximately 210 square miles of Berlin's 341 Moscow's communiques showed.

Capital Encircled

The Nazis, throwing women and children into the death struggle for Berlin, admitted tonight that the doomed German capital was encircled and conceded that the "front now runs right through the heart of the city."

As Soviet assault teams beat back the German defenders from the north, east, south and west, Soviet tommygunners stormed the southern edge of shell-pocked Templehof airdrome and incessant Soviet fighter patrols roared over the smoke-blanketed city to forestall the possible escape of Nazi big-shots by air.

As the Swiss radio broadcast an unconfirmed report that a link-up between American and Russian forces took place on the Elbe river along a many-mile front this afternoon, the German high command announced that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army was within 14½ miles of a juncture.

The fall of Stettin, capital of Pomerania and the "Port of Berlin," came with dramatic suddenness as Marshal Stalin disclosed the great city of 383,000 persons had been toppled by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army.

Foster Son Hunted In Cottage Killing

Big Rapids, Mich., April 26 (AP) —Mrs. Edna L. Smiley, who was found shot to death in her Echo lake cottage Monday, "died by firearms by a person or persons unknown", a coroner's jury found today.

A murder warrant, requested by Prosecutor Fred R. Everett, has been issued for Mrs. Smiley's foster son James, 15, who was last seen on Sunday, checking out of a Big Rapids hotel.

Witnesses at the inquest included Warren McGuire, farmer who found Mrs. Smiley's body; his brother, Douglas McGuire; Sgt. Ray Kapke of the state police; and James Hayes, 15, who spent Saturday night in Big Rapids with James.

Everett said an autopsy showed Mrs. Smiley was killed with a .22 calibre rifle.

Verona Seized; German Escape Barred In Italy

BY MAURICE E. MORAN

Rome, April 26 (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Army captured the railway center of Verona in a lightning 20-mile stab today, virtually sealing off the Brenner Pass escape route of German troops in Italy, and Swiss reports said patriots were seizing control of all major cities in northern Italy including Milan, Turin and Genoa.

Nazi armies south of the Alps appeared entirely disorganized and prisoners were being rounded up by the thousands. A captured German corps commander, Gen. Von Schwerin, who was taken by the British Eighth Army, said "I know the situation for German soldiers in North Italy is hopeless."

(A partisan-controlled radio in Milan reported tonight that the Italian Liberation committee had taken over the administration of the whole of Northern Italy, said a British broadcast recorded by CBS.

Fifth army forces smashed through the Nazis' formidable Adige defense line near Verona, and a terse Allied communique said armored units driving up the western coast were "attacking toward Genoa" against heavy fire from mobile and coast defense guns.

An Associated Press correspondent aboard an American bomber said he cruised as far north as Verona without seeing any sign of fighting and that the Po Valley was a "scene of utter peace." He saw American tanks roaring northward between Mantova and Verona.

Headquarters announced that a flying Fifth Army column had driven to an area north of Mantova (Mantua), which is 20 miles south of Verona. Verona, lying at the foothills of the Alps, is 75 airline miles south of Bolzano, where the Brenner Pass proper begins.

Seizure of Verona in effect would seal off a great part of the German forces in Northern Italy from any chance of withdrawal into the Nazis' Bavarian redoubt.

Where's Mussolini?

An Associated Press dispatch from Bern, Switzerland, said that Benito Mussolini and Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, had arrived disguised in the Italian city of Como, not far from the Swiss border.)

The Milan radio station reported that Mussolini, who has been living in a Villa outside Milan, had offered to surrender the city to Italian partisans, but had then fled without carrying out the offer.

The same station broadcast another report that the former dictator had escaped into Switzerland under an assumed name, and that half of Turin was in the hands of patriot fighters. Other cities where patriot uprisings were reported included Gallarate, Legnano, Novara and Varese.

In evacuating their last footholds south of the Po near Ferrara the Germans abandoned so much equipment and motor transport "that we are unable to count it," said a statement from Eighth Army Headquarters.

Everywhere along the line the Nazi were retreating so rapidly that the progress of their Allied pursuers was difficult to follow.

PORTLY GOERING ILL, QUITS WAR

Hamburg Radio Reports No. 2 Nazi Suffering From Heart Ailment

BY JAMES F. KING

London, April 26. (AP)—The German Hamburg radio announced tonight that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering had resigned as head of the dying Nazi air force because of an "acute" heart illness, while a high-ranking German general staff member captured by the Americans predicted that Adolf Hitler would die with his troops in encircled Berlin.

The captured German general—unidentified in a U. S. Ninth army front dispatch but termed "internationally known and one of the best - informed members of the German general staff"—predicted the war would end within a few days and said that Goering probably already had been executed.

The Hamburg station said that the portly Goering, whose proud air force has been blasted almost to extinction, had been succeeded by Gen. Ritter Von Grein who was made a marshal. The text of the announcement:

"Reichsmarshal Goering who has been suffering from heart trouble for some time and whose condition has become acute has asked the fuehrer to be relieved of his command as chief of the luftwaffe at a time when his strength is needed. The fuehrer has granted his request. The new head of the luftwaffe is Gen. Ritter Von Grein who has been promoted to general field marshal."

Von Grein was once reported head of German air forces in Russia and also a commander at Orel.

Rocket Bombs Kill 2,754 In England; Attacks Now Ended

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM

London, April 26 (AP) — British censorship lifted a partial silence of nearly eight months today to disclose that Germany's dreaded V-2 rocket bombs had killed 2,754 persons and seriously wounded 6,523.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that the attacks definitely had ceased—in fact none have been reported in England the last month—and said that most of the rockets, estimaed unofficially at between 1,050 and 1,280, had fallen on London "in an almost overwhelming degree." Some American soldiers were among the 9,277 casualties.

The rocket attacks began Sept. 8, 1944, supplanting the earlier buzz-bomb attacks which began last June and which took an even heavier toll of British lives while they lasted. The rocket attacks stopped when Allied troops overran the launching sites in Holland.

PATTON'S MEN NEARING LAST NAZI HIDEOUT

DANUBE RIVER LINE SMASHED; MUNICH IMPERILLED

BY ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, Friday, April 27 (AP) — Heavily-gunned U. S. Third Army tank columns battled eight miles from Austria yesterday in a bid for a swift showdown with last-stand enemy troops massing at the border, and in the north the British captured Germany's second greatest port of Bremen.

As these blows fell on the north and south segments of dismembered Germany, Allied capitals of Europe buzzed with rumors started by a Swiss radio report that the Americans and Russians had met in the Elbe River area on "a front of many miles."

Battle Front Gone

Censorship covered American positions at the reported junction area, but a front dispatch from the U. S. First Army told of a patrol moving at will through German lines between the Mulde and Elbe Rivers.

Bremen fell after a whirlwind assault of two days, and only snipers remained in the rubble to challenge the victorious British moving through the dock area of what once was a city of 350,000 people.

The ruins of Bremen were captured by Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British Second Army.

Hundreds of slave laborers emerged from the cellers and shelters and swarmed over the rubble.

While the world awaited confirmation that the American and Russians had met somewhere near Berlin, Gen. Patton's U. S. Third Army in ground-eating strikes was 95 miles from a junction with the Red Army in Austria that would convert Czechoslovakia into a giant German trap.

Decisive Struggle Begins

In close echelon with the Seventh and French First Armies, Patton's forces broke across the Danube at three points—leaving that river line shredded along a 180-mile front and Munich imperiled by three separate American columns each about 40 miles from the city.

Some 20 divisions in three armies were pressing steadily southward, bent on engulfing the Nazi Alpine redoubt before the SS troops could get set for a stand.

A decisive battle appeared to be shaping up on Patton's front nearest Austria, where Germans were massing in the mountain passes 70 miles from Hitler's Berchtesgaden to meet the shock of the southbound tanks and infantry.

The French drove up to the Swiss frontier all the way from Basel, at the Swiss-French-German border junction, eastward to Lake Constance and the Swiss said these forces also had captured the city of Constance, where many big-wigs and their families first took refuge.

The French sweep along the Swiss border completed the envelopment of the Black Forest, where trapped Germans were surrendering by the thousands.

MEAT RATIONING TIGHTENS AGAIN

Margarine And Cheese Go Up In Points; Some Beef Roasts Cut

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Still more meat was put under rationing control today, effective Sunday, with the average point price higher, but some canned fruits and vegetables were reduced in point values.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, said the point raises for meat, putting about 99½ per cent of the civilian supply under ration control, reflected a supply for April some 2½ per cent less than that of March. About 94½ per cent of the meat supply was rationed this month.

Processed food ration value cuts were highly selective: In canned snap beans, tomato catsup and chili sauce, apricots, and tomatoe juice and vegetable juice combination. The point price of grape juice went up.

Emphasizing the tight food supply which the monthly ration value chart reflected, President Truman meanwhile called on the nation for a big increase in the planting of Victory gardens.

Red point increases run one to two points a pound for most cuts of all grades of lamb and veal, and a point a pound on most beef steaks. Decreases of one to two points apply on beef roasts and other beef cuts. Margarine goes up four point a pound and group 1 cheese which include cheddar, swiss, brick, and blue, are boosted two points.

Prosecutor To Ask Petain's Death On Charge Of Treason

BY RELMAN MORIN

Paris, April 26. (AP) — Marshal Philippe Petain surrendered to French officials at the Swiss border today to await trial in France on a charge of high treason, for which his scheduled prosecutor announced he would ask a sentence of death—with clemency.

The 89-year-old former Vichy chief of state was met at the frontier by Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander of the French forces of the interior at the time of the Normandy invasion and before. Petain extended his hand, but Koenig did not respond.

The commissar of Dijon and a French guard of 30 men also were present at the frontier station of Valorbe to form an escort for the aged marshal and his wife, who proceeded by automobile to Les Hopitaux-Neufs and there boarded a special train for Paris.

The soldiers gave no salute and there was no fanfare as the marshal stepped across the frontier. Swiss dispatches said there had been a small, spontaneous demonstration along the way as the Petain party proceeded toward the border in four automobiles from Wessen, Switzerland.

Precautions were taken to prevent disorders during the French journey, reportedly to a prison fortress in the Paris area where it was planned to confine the marshal, still remembered by many Frenchmen as the world war one hero of the battle of Verdun.

TIPPING LEGALIZED

The Chinese consider it legal and good form to "squeeze" a tip or commission of from 5 to 10 per cent from any person for whom they do a favor. Servant labor is cheap in China partly because of this reason.

These are daytime pajamas or drawing room pajamas — the kind that some American hostesses wear to cozy cocktail parties.

Mrs. Taylor's husband, who is a marine corporal and known as "Pop," found these pajamas in a wicker basket hidden in a cave. They are thrilling to look at and soft to the touch.

Pop carries the basket around on his arm from place to place until he can get a chance to ship them home.

One morning I wandered down to our mortar platoon and ran onto a young fellow with whom I have a great deal in common. We are both from Albuquerque and we both have mosquito trouble.

This New Mexico lad was Pfc. Dick Trauth of 508 W. Santa Fe St. Both his eyes were swollen almost shut from mosquito bites. At least one of mine is swollen shut every morning. We both look very funny.

Dick still is just a boy. He's seen nineteen months in the marines and a year overseas. He's a veteran of combat and still he's only 17 years old. He has one brother in the marines and another in the army in Germany.

Dick writes letters to movie stars and not long ago he got back a picture of Shirley Temple, autographed to his company just as he had asked her to do. Dick is very shy and quiet and I had a feeling he must be terribly lonesome. But the other boys say he isn't and that he gets along fine.

One of the marines who drives me around in a jeep whenever I have to go anywhere is Pfc. Buzz Vitere of the Bronx, New York.

Buzz has other accomplishments besides jeep driving. He is known as the Bing Crosby of the marines. If you shut your eyes and don't listen very hard you can hardly tell the difference.

I first met Buzz on the transport coming up to Okinawa. He and a friend would give an impromptu and homegrown concert on deck every afternoon.

They would sit on a hatch in the warm tropical sun and pretty soon there would be scores of marines and sailors packed around them, listening in appreciative silence. It made the trip to war almost like a Caribbean luxury cruise.

Buzz's partner was Pfc. Johnny Marturello, Des Moines Ia. Johnny plays the accordian. He is an Italian, of course, and has all an Italian's flair for the accordian. He sings too, but he says as a singer his name is "Frank not-so-hotra."

Johnny plays one piece he composed himself. It is a lovely thing. He sent it to the GI Publishing Co., or branch or whatever it is in the States and I feel positive if it could be widely played it would become a hit.

The piece is a sentimental song called "Why Do I Have To Be Here Alone?" Johnny wrote it for his girl back home, but he grins and admits they are 'on the outs."

Johnny came ashore on Love Day and his accordian followed two days after. Now in his off moments, he sits at the side of the road and plays for bunches of Okinawans that the marines have rounded up. They seem to like it.

Johnny had a lot of trouble with his accordian down south in the tropical climates. Parts would warp and stick and mould and he continuously had to take the thing apart and dry and clean it.

But it was worth the trouble. It had kept Johnny from getting too homesick. He brought it along with him from America just for his own morale. He knew the accordian would probably be ruined by the climate, but he didn't care.

"I can always get a new accordian," Johnny said, "but I can't get a new me."

Aged Resident Of Cornell Dies Here

Edward C. Walsh, 79, of Cornell, died at St. Francis hospital yesterday noon following an illness of several weeks of a heart ailment. He was admitted to the hospital Wednesday.

Born Dec. 21, 1865, at Waupaca, Wis., Mr. Walsh had been employed in woods work for many years. For the past six years he has lived at Cornell with his son, Elmer, and prior to that resided in Escanaba.

Surviving are six sons, Rufus of Green Bay, James and Ralph of Detroit, Elmer of Cornell, Arthur of Escanaba, and Warren of Muskegon; two brothers, Mose of Winegar, Wis., and Montgomery of Appleton, and 19 grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home in Escanaba. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

In a 19-mile breakthrough of powerful enemy fortified positions on the Oder's bank, Rokossovsky's men seized Schwedt, Kasekow and Gartz, and captured Stettin after cutting the Berlin-Stettin super-highway at captured Penkun, 14 miles southwest of the great ship-building center.

The fall of the northern anchor of Berlin's Oder river defense line laid open the entire Baltic coast for continued drives westward by Rokossovsky's army in the direction of Rostock and Hamburg, and a cleanup of the north German plains in conjunction with Allied western armies.

The frenzied Berlin defenders resorted to every trick in the Nazi bag, said a Moscow dispatch—disguising themselves as civilians, and even as clergymen, while seeking to hamper Soviet operations by hiding in houses bearing white flags and opening fire from roofs and cellars as the Russians passed.

Alley Clean-Up To Start Here Monday

The spring alley clean-up in Escanaba by city crews will start Monday, it was announced yesterday by City Manager A. V. Aronson.

First work will be in the alley north of and bordering Ludington street, followed by a clean-up of the south Ludington alley. After that will come the "house cleaning" of alleys in the residential section.

A power shovel will be used and the work with the shovel is expected to take about three weeks to complete. Men will follow up with hand shovels in a job that will take about two more weeks.

Best fill material removed from alleys will be used for fill at Ludington Park. Less desireable fill material will be hauled to the bay shore park south of the city, and all material with any odor will be trucked to the dump west of the city.

MEAT SHORTAGE REMAINS ACUTE

Supplies Wholly Inadequate To Meet Local Demands

Like Mother Hubbard, local housewives will find that the cupboard will be quite bare when they go shopping for the week-end meat supply, a survey of several local meat markets yesterday indicated.

Meat dealers reported that the meat shortage, which has been very acute here the past several weeks, is showing no improvement and that available supplies continue to be wholly inadequate to meet demands.

The shortage is general and affects all cuts and varieties of meat, local dealers reported. Even locally slaughtered livestock is scarce, with indications that a portion of this supply, at least, is being diverted to a black market.

While the meat shortage continues acute, however, the local dealers reported the butter shortage has long since passed and that supplies are mounting with a diminishing demand because of high point values.

In an effort to divert more meat to consumers in non-meat producing areas, the OPA yesterday announced a new meat control order which is designed to limit the amount of meat slaughtered on farms and consumed in producing areas. The OPA contended that the order will result in more livestock being channelled through federally inspected slaughter houses and thereby shipped across state lines to non-meat producing areas.

The local district OPA office announced that R. W. Ballensinger has been assigned to the farm slaughter program in the upper peninsula.

Also designed to increase available meat supplies was the recent subsidy increase for meat processors, OPA reported.

A reshuffling of meat and fat point values also was reported to be in the offing, but meat dealers yesterday pointed out that changes in ration values don't create any more meat "and there just ain't enough for to go around."

As one local butcher put it, "Even the horns are short."

Munising News

Wide Praise Given Junior Class Play Of Mather School

Now that an extra day has passed since the junior class play, "Tiger House," the people of Munising and people of many cities in the United States realize what a fine performance the junior class gave last Tuesday night. One example of appreciation was given by Cpl. Sid Prussin, who formerly played with Billy Rose's band in New York City, when he said, "This play was easily as good as many I've seen on Broadway." Another comes from Walter Krutz of Milwaukee, Wis., a visitor in Munising, in a letter which was written to show his appreciation for the splendid evening he spent as a guest of the city. He says, "It was a pleasure to attend your play the other night. To say the least, it was very realistic and I frankly admit that I was startled at times. Yours was as yet the best school play I have witnessed—I take off by hat to you young folks—carry on, the world needs more like you."

Due to the limitations of the seating in the high school auditorium and the demands made by many people, the junior class will again present this play, "Tiger House," on Tuesday, May 1, at 8:15 p. m., and cordially invites the people of its neighboring cities to visit Munising on that date to enjoy with them an evening of splendid entertainment.

In the opinion of qualified dramatic critics this play was done by the junior class students in a manner equally as fine as many professional artists who might have done it, and endorse it as entertainment worth several times the admission price.

SENDS CITY $1,000

In what was believed to be the first instance of its kind in the city's history a check for $1,000 was received this week by Mayor Lowell M. Gibson from D. W. McDougall of Dallas, Texas, and former Munising business man.

In bequeathing the $1,000 Mr. McDougall suggested that the city invest the money in a government bond, series (G). With the interest of the bond to be used for the maintenance of the family lot at the Maple Grove cemetery.

Troop 455 Shows Gain In Membership

Troop 455, under the direction of Stanley Johnson and Oscar Nelson, which is sponsored by the Bethany Lutheran Brotherhood, has during the past month, showed a nice gain in membership. The Scouting program has been stepped up and several hikes and other outdoor activities have been developed. At present the Troop is working toward a good advancement for the forthcoming court of honor, which is to be held May 8th. Mr. Johnson reports that his registered enrollment is thirty-two, with five candidates on the waiting list.

The troop committee has also added to its membership two additional committeemen to assist in the work of the Troop. Information given out by Mr. Worthly Magnuson, chairman of the committee, that they are meeting soon to draw up a schedule, whereby each committeeman will have the opportunity to offer his assistance in the troop, by making scheduled visits to the troop on its meeting night.

As with most troops, it takes time for a unit to make a good showing of itself by way of enticing boys to enter it as registered Scouts. Troop 455 has come to be one of the larger sized Troops in Escanaba. As time passes it is the hope of its leaders, that an excellent Scouting program, which has already begun, will develop further.

The Jewish calendar has 383 days; Julius Caesar's, 365 days; Mohometan, 355 days. The Gregorian calendar today is used in all Christian countries except Russia.

Briefly Told

Gas Stamps Stolen—Escanaba police yesterday morning were notified by Menominee Police Chief Anton Jensen that four bulk gasoline plants in Menominee had been broken into and gasoline stamps stolen. The safes in which the stamps were locked were broken open by "professionals," Menominee police said. Money in the safes was not taken. All officers in this area were notified of the thefts.

In Nov., 1888, Mrs. George Hirsch of Dallas, Tex., gave birth to six children, four being boys and two girls, according to the Daily Telegraph of London.

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

When the San Francisco Conference ends, the delegates will have experienced their "first day of school" for the study of the complex problems of world peace, and for the development of a curriculum for a permanent school.

Everyone everywhere should clearly understand that this Conference is the most important international meeting in history.

We can be thankful that our nation is represented by wise and experienced statesmen with a sincere desire for peace, and we are sure the other nations have the same type of representation.

The Conference will furnish the leadership and the plan, but peace depends upon the peoples of the United Nations—upon their will to peace, upon their sacrifice for peace, upon their works of peace.

The difficulties are enormous, some of the problems cannot be solved immediately, and compromises will be made by all nations in order to arrive at conclusions that will be fair to all countries.

The Conference cannot create an enduring peace. But it will lay the foundations for a plan for peace to be put into effect as soon as possible, and which we and future generations of the world must maintain.

Let us be sparing in our criticism and generous with our encouragement and constructive suggestions.

And above all let us pray that the thinking people of the world will take advantage of the opportunity afforded by the "first day of school" and build continuously toward an enduring peace.

No Security for Adolf

ADOLF Hitler may not have been there, but his fortress at Berchtesgaden got a terrific pounding from British and American planes Wednesday. The RAF Lancasters cascaded their six-ton blockbusters on Der Fuehrer's sumptuous mountain retreat, while the Americans ravaged many other selected targets in the Berchtesgaden area.

The present whereabouts of Hitler is unknown, although the Germans still contend the mustached braggadoccio is in Berlin. Quite naturally, the Allies don't believe that yarn, which accounts for the shellacking administered to Berchtesgaden Wednesday. The Allies believe Hitler and other Nazi bigwigs are hiding there.

Despite the direct hits scored on Hitler's mountain chalet and the adjoining fortress at Berchesgaden, it is unlikely that the Nazi leader was killed in the heavy air raid Wednesday. If he were there, it may be presumed Hitler was hidden deep in the underground tunnels, safe even from the heaviest aerial bombs.

The manhunt is on. Allied armies are driving toward Berchtesgaden from the north, the south, the east and the west. Further aerial attacks on the Berchtesgaden retreat are inevitable, not so much in the hope of killing Hitler by a bomb—although that's a refreshing thought, too—but rather to immobilize the elaborate defenses that Hitler has constructed in the hope of saving his own neck, while the rest of Germany bleeds to death.

It probably will take foot soldiers to do it—the toughest jobs always fall to the infantrymen—but Hitler will be overrun, along with the rest of his fellow war criminals. If he is not killed in the process of being captured, he will be forced to stand trial as the bloodiest arch criminal of all history.

Time is running out on De Fuehrer—and fast.

A Job Well Done

PEOPLE of Escanaba showed their generosity again by the splendid manner in which they responded to the appeals in the United Clothing Collection being conducted throughout the nation this month. More than twenty tons of wearing apparel was contributed to the relief of unfortunate peoples in war-stricken countries. And it was not junk, but all of it good, serviceable clothing.

Tales of horror are daily coming out of Europe, where the ruthless Nazis have allowed hundreds of thousands of men, women and children die for the want of food, clothing and medical aid. The clothing situation is particularly acute in many European countries because the invading Nazis quickly ransacked the stores and also appropriated the output of looms and mills.

Liberation of many occupied lands has not remedied this situation, but it has made large-scale assistance possible. And so, during the month of April, the people of the United States are asked to contribute 150,000,000 pounds of used and usable clothing to the destitute of Europe and Asia. The goal will be reached if other communities throughout the nation do as well as Escanaba.

Must Look To Future

THE Upper Peninsula is included in the nation-wide survey launched recently by the Forest Service to appraise the extent of wartime depletion of our timber resources and to determine what forestry policies must be established in the postwar years.

The Forest Service has contended that present logging practices are exhausting timber resources. It is estimated that in 1909 the total volume of saw timber in the forests of the United States was 2,826 billion board feet. In 1938 the estimated stand was 1,764 billion board feet. Since then, there has been heavy cutting to meet the vital needs of America and her allies at war.

The lumbering regions have a vital stake in their forests. Wherever the timber disappears, the mills close down and ghost towns take the place of once-thriving communities.

Tree planting programs, such as those instituted by private companies, state and federal agencies, are helpful in restoring the timberlands that have been ravished in the past. It is becoming increasingly apparent, however, that wasteful logging practices also must be discontinued if the nation is to be assured of an adequate timber supply for the future.

Utilities Are Godsend

DESPITE its low property valuation for a community of its size, the city of Escanaba has been well-financed throughout the years because of its good fortune in having municipally-owned utilities, which contribute sizable revenues annually to the city coffers.

Other cities are similarly benefited by their electric utilities, according to a report by the International City Manager's association, which shows that the amount of gross revenue transferred to the general city government ranges from one per cent in Seattle and Tacoma to 45.5 per cent in Jacksonville, Fla. Contributions average a little more than 29 per cent of the gross revenue of the utilities in 81 council-manager cities. A study of the 128 municipally-owned electric utilities in Kansas reveals that 118 cities contribute an average of 26.2 per cent of their gross revenues to city operating funds.

In times past, private companies have made offers to acquire some of Escanaba's utility plants, but the city administration, backed by public opinion, always turned them down. The wisdom of this action is all very apparent now.

Flying After War

EARLY postwar private planes are not expected to be much different than the prewar models for the reason that it will be impossible for the manufacturers to make them at the prices the public wants to pay.

With costs of materials and labor greatly increased, the manufacturer finds it will be difficult to put in the modern refinements and still sell the personal aircraft at prewar prices. The large companies, now making money in the production of large military aircraft, are looking to the postwar market, but it is uncertain whether they will be able to reduce their high overhead costs to compete successfully in the low price field. Consequently, the small producer may fare better than has been expected.

In 1929, there were about 190 companies making small planes in the United States, and now there are only about thirty. The number may be reduced after the war. It is estimated that there were about 20,000 private plane owners before the war, and that production was about 7,000 a year. Because of its slow start on reconversion, the industry doubts that the postwar output will exceed this figure for some time.

It is apparent that America's mammoth aircraft industry, now producing war planes at a rate thought impossible at the outset of the war, will have to greatly curtail its operations when peace returns. This prospect explains why all the manufacturers are looking into the possibilities for using their huge plants for the production of refrigerators, automobiles and other civilian goods besides airplanes.

BUT WE DIDN'T STARVE

(Milwaukee Journal)

We really don't like to bring up the subject again, but it is hard to resist suggesting once more that Mr. Bromfield be paged.

Louis Bromfield, novelist turned farmer, went around the country in 1943 as a preacher of doom. Everything was wrong and the nation was about to starve. It was just a matter of months until the people would be "living on a diet well below the nutrition level."

Well, we didn't starve. Maybe we did not have all the steaks we should have liked, but everyone had or could have all the food units needed.

Now one reads that midwestern grain state representatives are calling for more and more boxcars to move the wheat and corn piled up in elevators from the Dakotas to Ohio. That does not look like starvation.

We would not mention this matter again if it were not such a striking example of the foolishness in statement and charge that was indulged in during the dark days by those who did not understand what the program was or who let their emotions and political hate run away with them.

They were convinced that they alone could save the republic. As a matter of fact they didn't help much.

Maybe there is a warning in this for the future.

Gracie Allen Says

San Francisco—Well, sign language has really come into its own here. With representatives of 46 nations speaking almost as many languages, it was a case of necessity.

There's one sign that means "Have you any steak?" Another that means "Where can I find a taxi?" And another to ask "Have you a vacant hotel room?"

The San Franciscans have no trouble with the sign language. All they have to learn is to shake their head "No."

Not only do these foreign delegates have strange languages, but even stranger beards. Old settlers say there haven't been so many beards here since the days of the "Forty-Niners."

I didn't know which hotel to try to get into when I first arrived, but when I saw the Egyptian delegation go into the Palace Hotel I realized that was the place for me. From what the Egyptians were wearing I knew they must have sheets there.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

Buffalo: Recently, at the Kiwanis Club here, a Dr. Y. declared that when a person says "I feel good," he means that he just left church and feels pious. But a Dr. T. announced that when a person says "I feel well" he is speaking of the sensitivity of his fingertips. Who's pulling whose leg?

Answer: "Feel good" designates either good spirits or a virtuous mod. But "feel well" in American usage relates to good health. Merriam - Webster's, under well, adjective: "Being in health—as, a well man; he looks well."

Of course, in "I feel well," the word could be construed as an adverb describing the act of feeling through contact, but such a usage is foreign to American idiom.

Correct: I feel well (I am in good spirits; I have a virtuous or pious feeling).

Correct: I feel well (I feel in good health).

Correct: I feel bad (I feel sorry or regretful; I feel unwell).

Wrong: "She looks good." Right: She looks well; she looks healthy.

Wrong: "She looks badly." Right: She looks bad; she looks ill.

Wrong: "I feel badly." Right: I feel bad; I feel ill; I feel sorry or regretful.

Wrong: "Don't feel badly about it." The word "look" in the foregoing expressions relates to one's appearance, and not to the act of seeing with one's own eyes. The word "feel" denotes an emotion, a state of mind, or a sensation of discomfort, illness, or well-being, and not the act of feeling something, as with the fingers.

Correct: Don't feel bad about it.

The death of President Roosevelt, with President Truman taking office immediately on receipt of the news, has stirred widespread interest in the question of presidential succession.

The constitution of the United States does not go beyond providing that the vice president shall succeed the president if the later should resign or die in office. A law passed by Congress in 1886 says that of neither the president nor vice president is able to hold office, then the Secretary of State becomes president.

What is not generally realized is that this statute of 1886 repealed a law passed in 1792. That earlier Congress, meeting shortly after the convention which drafted the constitution, Realized the need to fill in the succession.

The Secretary of State was proposed as the logical successor since he is the next highest ranking officer in the executive branch of the government. But Thomas Jefferson was Secretary of State then, under Washington, and among Federalists in Congress there was deep resentment of what he stood for.

—REASON FOR 1792 ACTION—

This is believed to be the reason why Congress in 1792 refused to name the Secretary of State as second in line for the presidency.

Instead, the law passed in that year provided that the president pro tempore of the senate, "or, if there is none, then the speaker of the house of representatives, for the time being, shall act as president until the disability is removed or a president elected."

Under this law, as it was generally interpreted, the president pro tem of the senate would continue in that job and, in addition, act as president of the United States until a general election could be held. That this would have made for trouble and confusion was clearly realized—particularly when, with the assassination of President Garfield in 1881, Vice President Arthur acceded to the presidency for nearly a full four year term.

Shortly after Garfield's death, a resolution was introduced in the senate calling on the judiciary committee to inquire into the question of presidential succession. It was not, however, until 1886 that Senator Hoar of Massachusetts was able to get the present law passed. A little research shows that Hoar's intention was to insure a continuous four year term, without the interruption of a special election.

"It was intended by the framers of the Constitution," he told the senate, "that the process by this great and free people of changing its mind should be a process which should take place but once in four years; and when a man is elected to the presidency it it not so much the purpose of the American people to confer honor and authority upon an individual, as it is to pronounce that certain policies, certain tendencies, certain opinions on great public questions in which the country has an interest shall prevail and have the ascendency in its administration for four years."

—SEVERAL BECAME PRESIDENTS—

To support his argument for Secretary of State, Hoar read the list of men who had been president pro tem of the senate and then read the list of secretaries of state. The latter was studded with illustrious names—Calhoun, Webster, James G. Blaine, Edmund Randolph—while the former were mostly obscure men.

Moreover, Hoar pointed out that six secretaries of state—Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan—had subsequently been elected to the presidency. Since that time, two candidates for the presidency—William Jennings Bryan and Charles Evans Hughes—have been secretaries of state.

Chief opposition to Hoar's proposal came from Senator Edmunds of Vermont. He told the senate he wanted to let the law stand as "it is now, providing for an early election of president and vice president of the United States in case both offices are vacant." The issue came to a vote on a proposal by Edmunds to let the old law stand with only a minor change, and he got the support of 21 senators as opposed to 37 who backed Hoar.

Today there is no doubt about the presidential succession. The framers of the law of 1886 clearly intended to prevent the kind of interruption that would come with a national election following on the death of both president and vice president.

A CROP OF HUNKLES— At this season of the year in Escanaba grade schools the children are experimenting with seeds. The children bring one or more varieties and these are planted in several ingenious ways so their growth may be watched by the students.

Dunathan

In one grade school a little girl brought a few seeds for the experiment. Because the seeds were not in their original package, the teacher asked what kind of seeds they were.

"They're Hunkles," said the child.

"Is that a flower or a vegetable?"

The child hesitated and then said her mother had told her that they were Hunkle seeds and that pretty flowers were pictured on the package—so they must be flowers, just Hunkle flowers.

So the teacher and the children are waiting patiently to watch the Hunkles sprout and grow. They haven't yet found out that Hunkle is the name of a seed company—like Burpee.

WELL, NOT MUCH—An aide from Gladstone reports that A. Woodhall of that city says half of the fellows (he doesn't indicate which half) who are giving information on how to make a wooden whistle do not know what they are talking about.

"He declares the time for whistle making is when the trees are leafing out, then the bark will slide with little trouble," the aide reports. "He also says that at that time it doesn't make a hell of a lot of difference what kind of wood you make it out of—all the softwoods are good."

Incidentally, the aide thinks this wooden whistle business has stirred up almost as much rumpus as the time the GI's whistled at the girls in the Deep South.

HAWAIIAN CLIMATE— John W. Meyer of 451 Stephenson avenue came back from the Hawaiian Islands April 9 and he's now enjoying the chilly spring climate here. And he is enjoying it, because he found the warmth of Hawaii to his liking but not conducive to his good health.

"I got a sort of fungus infection in the creases of my skin back of the joints, and this with a general feeling of nervous tiredness made it seem good to get away and come back home," John explained.

He is a carpenter and has, since the war, worked on several war jobs. Then he was offered the chance to go to Pearl Harbor to do necessary carpenter work there and went because he likes to travel. He was there three months, but the climate didn't agree with his health.

The climate affects quite a few of the men that way, while others thrive on the perpetual sunshine and warmth, he reported. "It's a country for the natives," he added.

Incidentally, he says the wreckage at Pearl Harbor caused by the Jap sneak attack on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, has been cleared away. Only visible reminder of that tragic day is the hulk of the "Oklahoma" still sunk in the harbor.

FATHER DOES IT—Birth announcements usually are left to the distaff side of the family, but when father does the announcing it usually has a touch of originality.

The other day two men walked into the Daily Press news room, hesitant yet proud, too. One of the men, John Girven of Watson, said that he wanted to have a birth announcement published. It was a girl, their first child, born that morning at St. Francis hospital.

"Thank you," said the reporter, turning away.

"Wait a minute, I've got one too," said the other man.

He was Ralph Erickson of Watson. Their second child, a daughter, had been born that morning in St. Francis hospital. Their first child is a boy.

"We're neighbors up at Watson," grinned the two men in a way they supposed would make everything clear, and walked out.

LEARNING HOW—John Heinz, 17, of 1304 North Eighteenth street, driver of one of three cars involved in an accident on Lake Shore Drive near the athletic field Tuesday night, was not connected with the accident by the police until the following morning.

The Heinz car did not collide with either of the other two, but did roll over in avoiding a collision. After the accident the boys in the Heinz car assisted others who were hurt, then righted their own car and drove it out of the way of traffic.

Perhaps for this reason and because of the confusion the police did not know that the Heinz car was involved. Heinz drove to Escanaba with one of the boys, then went to the hospital where he used his car for taxi service as the less injured were treated and released to return to their homes.

The day following the accident police learned of a third car involved in the accident and took statements from Heinz as well as the other boys.

"You're name wasn't even in the paper this morning," someone said to Heinz.

"That's right," Heinz grinned, "and even the police didn't know we were there."

"And this," said Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer, pointing to Heinz, 'is the boy who was police chief for a day when the seniors took over the city recently."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

San Francisco—Last fall it leaked out that there was a drastic difference of opinion between the State Department and the treasury over a soft peace for Germany, and after several weeks of discussion, President Roosevelt definitely threw his weight with the treasury in favor of a hard peace.

Pearson

Top war department officials, influenced by the atrocities committed against American and Allied prisoners, finally agreed with the president, and even the state department reluctantly swung into line.

For a long time it has been no secret that a group inside the state department favored a soft peace for Germany with a view to making her a bulwark against Russia after the war. But as long as Roosevelt was in the White House, the state department appeasers kept quiet.

However, on the day after his body was buried, a meeting of the German reparations committee was held in the office of Assistant Secretary Will Clayton at which both the state and war departments suddenly reversed Roosevelt's policy of a hard peace.

Specifically, they argued against the removal of Nazi factories, machine tools, plant equipment or goods out of Germany. The Russians have proposed the removal of German war plants to help build up the hundreds of Russian factories destroyed by Germany. But the state and war departments maintained that no such German equipment could be removed from Germany without the unanimous consent of the reparations commission. Naturally this means that either the United States or Great Britain could block such removal since both sit on the commission.

At this meeting, Assistant Secretary of State Clayton argued that American policy should favor leaving factory equipment and machinery in Germany so she can get back on a sound economic basis. He even mentioned the fact that Germany would need to import cotton to manufacture clothes and should be permitted to have enough exports to pay for the imported cotton. (Clayton is the biggest cotton exporter in the world and did a heavy business with the Nazis before the war.)

—RUSSIANS REMEMBER—

Unfortunately the Russians are all too familiar with the attitude of the state and war departments toward them. Unfortunately, also, some observers believe this distrust of the U. S. State Department is one reason why the Russians demand a strong, all-Communist Poland.

However, no matter how efficient the peace machinery devised at San Francisco, it will not work if the two strongest powers supposed to keep the peace already have begun jockeying against each other.

The Russians cannot forget among other things the strategy of the Cliveden set in England (with which Churchill was once sympathetic) to stir up war between Germany and Russia while England sat on the sidelines. The Russians also know all too well the type of anti-Russian conversation that goes on at the home of Mrs. Evalyn Walsh (Hope Diamond) McLean, when she entertains the elite of Washington society at her famous dinners at what is sometimes called the headquarters of the American Cliveden set.

The Russians knew in advance, for instance, that the Douglas Aircraft company had sold the plans for its DC-4 to Japan for $1,000,000 before Pearl Harbor.

And they have been especially interested in the War Department's survey of the damage done to German war plants by U. S. planes. A survey to be undertaken by a group of bankers and top insurance executives, including Henry C. Alexander, vice-president of J. P. Morgan; Fred Searles Jr., president of several J. P. Morgan Mine Companies; Franklin D'Olier, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co.; and Robert P. Russell, president of Standard Oil Development Co.

Considering the manner in which Standard Oil of New Jersey collaborated with Hitler's Cartels even after the war broke in Europe, and considering how the J. P. Morgan Branch Bank in Paris collaborated with the Nazis even after Pearl Harbor, you can't blame the Russians for wondering whether this survey actually isn't for the purpose of getting a line on German industry and building it up after the war.

—AMERICAN INDUSTRY WANTS IN—

Already the State Department is being bombarded by American industrialists who owned factories in Germany before the war and want to get back to start operating them. Among the leading pressure boys is Graeme Howard, vice president of General Motors in charge of operations in Europe (and Germany.) Howard helped organize Francho's Truck Transport Service during the Spanish Civil War, has a personal interest in the Opel Auto Works in Germany, and has been busy as a hound dog around the state department wanting to get back to Germany.

Naturally they can't have a hard peace if they are to build up Germany, so they don't want German factories and machine tools carted off to Russia.

Another factor making the Russians suspicious is the British demand that food which the Russian Army funds in Germany be used to feed the German people rather than to feed starving Poles and Russian slave laborers. Shortly before he left London, both Foreign Minister Eden and Sir James Grigg, British War Minister, took the position, in secret talks with U. S. officials, that food found in Germany must be used to feed the Germans, not Polish and Russian civilians.

A country-wide campaign is on to fix all auto brakes. The driver gets the fix—the pedestrian the breaks.

Reunion After 22 Years

Donald Maynard M. M. 2/c of the Seabees, who is now stationed at a southern base in California after being in foreign service for 14 months in the North Atlantic, met his oldest brother, Frank, whom he had not seen for twenty two years. Donald being the youngest of the family of thirteen children, nine of whom are boys, four brothers being in service, had not seen their brother Frank since he was four years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maynard live in San Pedro, Calif., and have seven children. The oldest, who are boys are in foreign service. Four at home. Mr. Maynard is a steel inspector in one of the ship yards. Donald spent the Easter holiday week end at their home while on leave. Recently he spent another week end there and met his nephew, Kenneth (Coonie) Tatrow of Garden.

The week end of April 15, he and his buddy were on liberty and up to Hollywood and arrived in front of the NBC station in time to see the stars leave from a broadcast, the Memorial Service for the late President Roosevelt. Among the many stars they recognized Ida Lapino, Bette Davis, James Cagney, Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Bob Hope. Ronald Coleman spoke to them, asked them how they felt about the death of the late President Roosevelt. After they expressed themselves, he said "He was a very good friend of mine." They were thrilled to have that chance to speak with a Hollywood star.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ekstrom of Manistique were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bjorkman.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Moore returned Saturday from a visit of one week in Detroit with relatives.

I SEE YOU'RE USING CLOROX TO MAKE YOUR DRAINBOARD SANITARY!
SURE! WHY TAKE CHANCES, WHEN IT'S SO EASY TO USE CLOROX!
MORE and more women are learning the importance of making drainboards and other kitchen "danger zones" sanitary . . . as well as clean looking. And Clorox is the choice of millions of women in providing greater home sanitation which is especially important today when there are so few civilian doctors and nurses. Clorox not only disinfects, it deodorizes and removes stains. And Clorox is free from caustic, a patented quality-feature which assures extra-efficiency. It is concentrated for economy . . . a little goes a long way.
And too, Clorox gently bleaches dingy white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors), removes stains, scorch, mildew . . . makes laundry fresh, sanitary. It lessens rubbing, conserves linens. Simply follow directions on label.
Bathrooms also can be "danger zones." Use Clorox in routine cleansing to make washbasin, tub, toilet, tile, linoleum, woodwork sanitary.

DON ROGERS IS STRICKEN HERE

Death Comes To Lineman Injured By Shock 14 Years Ago

Don Raphael Rodgers, 50, who was seriously burned and shocked by electricity in an accident 14 years ago, died at 6:30 o'clock last night at his home at 303 South Ninth street. He had been in ill health since the accident and death was ascribed to complications.

The accident occurred while he was employed as a lineman for the Upper Michigan Power and ight company.

Born July 5, 1895, at Rib Lake, Wis., Mr. Rodgers lived at Glidden, Wis., until 1912, when the family moved to Escanaba.

He served in World War 1 and was a member of the Escanaba post of the American Legion.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Frank Rogers of Escanaba, one sister, Mrs. W. A. Corcoran of Ishpeming, and three brothers, Francis, Winfield and Harlan of Escanaba.

The body will be in state at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at the Allo funeral home in Escanaba.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Patrick's church with the Rev. Freiberger officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

NEVADA'S RECORD ROOKERY

White pelicans on Anaho Island in Nevada's Lake Pyramid consume about 4000 tons of fish every year. This is the largest pelican rookery in the world.

Dog Ordnance Is Effective May 1

Starting May 1 in Escanaba all dogs must be confined or kept on leash until August 31 in conformity with a city ordinance adopted by the city council last year, Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer warned dog owners yesterday.

All dogs must be licensed, but whether licensed or not their owners cannot permit them to run at large during the period specified above. Licenses are now on sale at the police station.

The city council adopted the ordinance because of numerous complaints against dogs destroying lawns, shrubs, flowers and gardens. The period during which the dogs must be confined was limited to four months, the "growing season" of the summer.

Dogs found running at large after May 1 will be impounded by police and unless they are redeemed by the owner they will be destroyed after 48 hours. Owners may redeem the dog by paying $1.50. Each year over 200 unwanted dogs are gassed in Escanaba by the police. There were 213 in 1944.

Persons permitting dogs to run at large are subject to arrest and prosecution, and on conviction to a fine of $10 or 10 days jail sentence.

Augustana Lutherans In 35th Annual Conference

The 35th annual convention of the Superior Conference of the Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Synod officially opened at the First Lutheran church, Gladstone, last evening. The Superior Conference is made up of 61 churches located in northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, totaling 10,750 adult members.

At the opening service Rev. William Siegel of Iron Mountain, president of the Conference, preached on Foreign Missions, which is the theme of the convention. His text was taken from the Great Commission of Christ found in Matthew 28:18-20. Rev. Siegel pointed out that before Christ gave this commission he made the claim of possessing limitless power, saying, "All authority hath been given me in heaven and on earth." He said, "The great danger in planning a missionary program is in counting on our own resources rather than trusting in God's Promise, so that our program becomes active-centered instead of faith centered."

He also stressed that, in a chaotic world, we must preach more clearly than ever that true unity will only be found in a reliance on the Gospel: the Word and Sacraments, which are the divine instituted means whereby we come in contact with these unlimited resources.

After discussing the basis for Christian Missions, Rev. Siegel cited the four great mission fields of the world today. "First and foremost, though it is the mother to most of our churches, is Europe. Tremendous forces are contending for possession of Europe, and American Christians must be prepared to assist Evangelical forces during the postwar reconstruction period if there is to be hope of peace. Asia, with Chinese leaders friendly disposed or even active Christian, presents a limitless field for the unlimited power of the Gospel. In India the masses are not as kindly disposed and often feel that the Gospel is only a cloak for imperialism. Africa, south of the Sahara and Islam, welcome the Gospel. Tribal customs and beliefs are breaking up in contact with the west, and the natives are longing for a new life. Finally South America looks to our nation, not only for business leaders and educators, but the masses are very receptive to Evangelical missionary work. For these four great fields let us have faith in the limitless power of the Gospel, and the command to go and make disciples of all nations," he said.

Prior to the opening of the Conference, a Pastoral Conference was held Thursday morning with a paper on Foreign Missions given by the Rev. Melvin Hedin of Stephenson.

In the afternoon the lay-men held their annual Brotherhood convention, with Ben W. Carlson of Iron Mountain presiding. Officers were elected as follows: President, Ben W. Carlson, Iron Mountain; vice president, John Johnson, Iron River; secretary, E. M. Bloomquist, Metropolitan; treasurer, John Nessman, Manistique.

Today at 8:45 a. m., there will be a Holy Communion service, followed by morning and afternoon business session. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock Miss Verna Lofgren, recently returned from India, will speak at the Woman's Mission Festival. The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

A Brotherhood banquet for 250 will be held in the Bethany Lutheran church parlors at Escanaba Saturday evening, and the closing session of the Conference will be held in the Gladstone high school auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RETURN FROM MEXICAN TRIP

Nicholsons Find Little Evidence Of War In That Land

It seems hard to believe that our neighboring country to the south of us is at war or that its people are aware of any of the sacrifices or hardships that war entails, says G. J. Nicholson, who, with Mrs. Nicholson, has just returned from a several weeks sojourn in Texas and Mexico.

There is no rationing whatever, war time restrictions and dim-outs are unknown, life seems to be going on on a peacetime basis, stepped up a bit by the influx of American tourists, anxious to gorge themselves on thick, lucious steaks and other luxuries tabooed on this side of the Rio Grande. Inflationary prices, Mr. Nicholson, said, are prevailing over the country, particularly in prices charged the touring public. Hotel accommodations are more than double what they were before the war and at that are hard to get.

Mr. Nicholson saw a lot of new American cars—particularly those in the high priced fields. They had been shipped over to England through lend-lease arrangement and then re-shipped to Mexico, he was told. He noted that most of them had right hand drives.

The Nicholsons spent most of their time in Mexico City, and took numerous side trips throughout that area. They deem their visit to Peracutin, Mexico's newest volcano, as by far, the most interesting experience of the trip. The volcano, located not far from Mexico City—to the southwest—started erupting in the middle of a cornfield about three years ago. From a tiny smoking hole in the ground, it has grown into a mountain which has now attained a height of 2,500 feet and, according to scientists, has just begun to grow. The Nicholsons availed themselves of one of the numerous tours being conducted to the place and made the trip to the mountain's edge by car and from then on by horseback. Much of the ground traversed was almost too hot to touch and the spouting crater, seen at night time was a most awe inspiring sight.

In spite of the many things they saw to entertain and delight, they were both very glad to get back to the United States. Both suffered an attack of flu with a touch of pneumonia as an aftermath while living in Mexico City and, being unused to the high altitude, had a very unpleasant time of it for several days.

They made the trip from Detroit to Texas and return by plane and motored from Detroit here. They arrived home Tuesday evening.

Spectators To Be Welcome At Senior Prom

The public in general, but parents of members of the senior class of Manistique high school in particular, are urged to attend the Senior Prom to be held at the high school auditorium this evening.

"We want the parents to see and enjoy this affair," said Carl Olson, principal of the high school. "Indirectly they helped make the prom possible and it is their privilege to attend."

This has through the years been the premier social event at the school and this year will be no exception. The decorations will be unusually novel and beautiful, carrying out the "Harbor Lights" theme in both the color scheme and the prop setup.

Dancing will be between 9 and 12 o'clock with several entertainment features interspersed between the dancing program.

PHILS HANDED 2-0 SHUT-OUT

New Yorkers Now One Full Game Ahead Of Idle Cubs

New York, April 26 (AP)—Harry Feldman spaced five hits so widely today the Philadelphia Phils were unable to get a base runner to third and lost to the league leading New York Giants, 2 to 0.

Feldman, ailing much of last year when he won only 11 games, walked four and fanned two but scored the first run for the Giants in the third when he singled, advanced to third on an infield out and a sacrifice and counted when Mel Ott doubled.

The New Yorkers' other tally came in the seventh when Ernie Lombardi slapped a homer into the upper left field stands.

It was the seventh triumph in nine starts for the Giants, who lead the Chicago Cubs by a full game. The Cubs were idle today because of cold weather at Cincinnati.

It was old clothes day at the Polo Ground and 2,479 spectators donated approximately 12 tons of apparel to see the contest.

The 33-year-old right hander did not report to the Brown's this spring but remained on his job at the Goodyear Aircraft Corp. at Akron. He won nine and lost ten for the American League champions last season.

Senator Chandler Faces Tough Job

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York. (AP)—The usual procedure when some citizen takes over a spotlighted post is to burrow into his past to show how some childhood incident forecast his character as a man or was an omen of his destiny.

Unfortunately we are handicapped in this respect concerning Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler, the new commissioner of baseball. We never met the gentleman and all we know about him is what we've read in the papers, so we can't tell you of any boyish tree - hacking experience, or that at the ripe old age of six he was safe at home, thus indicating his future link to the national pastime.

His choice as successor to the late K. M. Landis caught us in a haze through which we could see only Ford C. Frick or Jim Farley, and we think that the fans in general were just as surprised. The happy one was something of an 11th hour entry, although he was favorably considered by Larry MacPhail, who has the knack of pulling his ideas through.

Must Be Tough

Everyone naturally will be pulling for Chandler to make good in a tough spot. Every move he makes will bring out a comparison to Landis. He'll have to be tough as a boot when occasion demands in dealing with his employers as well as players. If he never cracks down on club owners his critics will say he's a "yes" man, a figurehead, as Landis found plenty of chances to crack down, and he never muffed one.

As far as the promotion end of the job is concerned, Chandler should fill the bill. His cheery, toothy grin and penchant for being photographed in odd poses have wrangled more publicity for him than the average senator enjoys, and there is no reason to believe he'll crawl into a shell now.

We have been wondering a little about his attitude should some man even remotely connected with horse racing try to buy into a club. The new commissioner is from Kentucky, home of the derby, and he probably does not have the antipathy toward the turf sport that Landis had. The old jedge could whiff a race track connection a mile away, and that one whiff was all he needed to make him bar any transaction.

That Chandler is keenly interested in sports, and particularly baseball, is neither here nor there. It really would have been something if the baseball moguls had picked a man who wasn't interested in the game.

He does seem to have other qualifications, though. He has legal training, for one thing. He's on the showman order, and will keep his name and office before the public eye.

The club owners certainly wouldn't have chosen him if they thought he couldn't do a good job. And, after all, they are the ones who are paying his salary.

When Brides Threw Garters

The superstitious people of 14th and 15th century France believed that whoever caught the garter or stocking of the bride when it was thrown would be the next to wed. From this comes the modern custom of throwing the bridal bouquet.

Ninth Annual Daily Press Fishing Contest Opens On Saturday

Competition in the ninth annual Daily Press Upper Peninsula Fishing Contest opens with the opening of the trout fishing season on Saturday.

The contest is open to all anglers who fish in Upper Peninsula waters. It seeks to locate the fishermen who are blessed with the luck or skill that enables them to land the largest fish in the various classes. In this contest the emphasis is on single fish of notable size rather than upon the numbers of fish taken on a fishing trip.

As in previous years the 1945 contest is divided into classes, one for each of the fish found in the waters of the region. To the fisherman in each class fortunate enough to land the biggest fish, the Daily Press will award a trophy.

The contest rules, virtually unchanged from those in effect in previous years, will be found listed in full on the contest blank which will appear, from time to timeduring the fishing seasons in the Press. Each class opens with the legal opening of the season for taking that species. Every man, woman or child who fishes in the public waters of the peninsula is invited to enter his catch in the contest. There are no entry fees. The contest closes on Labor Day. Each contestant may enter as many fish as he desires. Visitors and residents are all eligible.

The fisherman is faced with only one restriction in taking fish he intends to enter in the contest. They must be taken in a legal manner. In order to assist in judging the entries, fishermen entering fish are asked, whenever possible, to submit photographs of their fish along with the entry blank.

Anglers, may clip the contest entry blank when it appears in the paper, or may secure copies by mail by addressing a request to the Outdoors Editor.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

That the club rooms of the major league baseball teams had kept secret their choice of Senator Chandler as commissioner to succeed Judge Landis until after the Cleveland conference is proved by the current issue of the Sporting News. This publication is the baseball Bible, but the issue dated April 26, printed, however, prior to Tuesday's meeting, indicated the Landis post would not be filled at the confab, and that the election would be postponed until after the war. The unanimous selection of Chandler was, obviously, as much as a surprise to the Sporting News big wigs as it was to the baseball public in general.

* * *

The CIO is reported to be considering plans to organize a union of baseball players, taking in not only the players but ticket sellers, ticket takers, ushers, etc. Actually the unionization of baseball would be an exceptionally difficult task and probably would cause more headaches for the union officials than the income from dues would warrant. Organizing the allied help, such as the ticket takers, etc. would be relatively simple and perhaps even desirable, but when it comes to the unionization of the players, that's something else. Players are paid upon the basis of individual worth to the club and the salary range is wide. It could hardly be done any other way.

* * *

Talk of organizing ball players into a CIO union has been heard before, but it has never been serious and probably is not serious even now. While there undoubtedly is some sentiment among baseball players for the creation of a union—the current story is that the movement has been started by the players—it is unlikely that any substantial percentage of the players favor unionization. Under the present system, the players are generally well paid and, more important their contracts are written on an individual basis, with the proper emphasis being made upon individual performance.

* * *

There is still another factor, and a more important one, that is a major obstacle to the unionization of ball players. That is the factor of public interest. The weapon of unions is the strike. The public certainly would soon lose interest in baseball if a series of important series were called off because of strikes. Moreover, the tangles that would result in schedules would be terrific. The inevitable result would be public apathy—and, of course, without public support there could be no professional baseball. Union leaders will do well to hesitate before tackling this business.

Hit and Miss—Jack Knott, former St. Louis pitcher, has been promoted to first lieutenant in the army. He is in Germany. . .The National league will not place a ban on announcing probable pitchers but will leave the issue up to each club, individually, to decide. . .Even Mrs. Joe McCarthy doesn't know the current edition of the New York Yankees without a scorecard. . .Omaha, Neb. voters have approved a $480,000 bond issue for a municipal sports stadium. . .350 disabled vets were guests of the Detroit Athletic club at the Tiger-Indian game April 20 and at dinner that evening. . .Speakers were Jimmy Conzelman of the Browns and Lou Boudreau of the Indians.

Hurdler Lidman Files Roosevelt Story To Sweden

Philadelphia, April 26 (AP)—Haakan Lidman, Sweden's hurdler and sports writer extraordinary who will compete tomorrow in a 120 yard high hurdle special event on the opening day of the 51st annual Pen Relay Carnival, told how he filed the story of President Roosevelt's death to the Stockholm Tidnigen.

The regular correspondent had left for San Francisco to cover the United Nations Conference. And so Haakan leaped in and filed several thousand words. He has also been sending his regular sports column daily to the Swedish paper.

Plus that, the lean athlete has raced in many of the indoor track meets, winning most of his races. In his last outing April 7 at Camp Endicott, R. I., Lidman smashed the world's 110-meters high hurdles mark with a time of 14.4 seconds.

He set the native European high hurdle record of 14 seconds in 1940, three-tenths of a second off the world's mark established in the 1936 Olympics meet by Spec Towns.

Lidman will be joined Saturday by his more famous running partner, Gunder (The Wonder) Haegg, who will compete against 12 in a special mile event.

FOURTH INNING RALLY NETS 7

Five Hits And 4 Walks Bring Macks Victory At Shibe Park

Philadelphia, April 26 (AP) — Connie Mack's Athletics scored seven times in the fourth inning on five hits and four walks to trim the New York Yankees, 7-5, in their first meeting of the season today at Shibe Park.

Philadelphia bounced into a second place tie with the New Yorkers with the help of some brilliant relief pitching by jittery Joe Berry who held the McCarthy clan to one single in the last five frames after starter Jesse Flores was slugged from the hill in the fourth.

Walter Dubiel had blanked the A's in the first three frames when Hal Peck opened the fourth with a single to the box. After Bobby Estalella walked and Hayes skied out, Dick Siebert drove in the first score with a single to center. Buddy Hall bounced a hit through Joe Buzas, driving home Estalella and Ed Busch doubled to the scoreboard, sending in Siebert and Hall.

After Dubiel purposely passed Joe Burns and walked Pinch Hitter Larry Rosenthal, Al Gettel was called in but he gave Charley Metro a free ticket, forcing in Busch to tie the count. Peck's second single of the inning scored Burns and Rosenthal raced across on Estalella's liner to Lindell before Hayes, the twelfth man to go to bat, flied out to end the inning.

Joe Buzas batted in the first Yank score off Flores in the first and Bud Metheny's single following Dubiel's single and George Stirnweiss' double made it 3-0 in the second.

Dubiel's double followed by Metheny's single and Derry's long fly drove in a fourth tally in the fourth and Luther Knerr replaced Flores after Lindell and Etten followed with successive singles for another marker.

CHANDLER SEES GAME

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler attended his first game as Baseball Commissioner today and saw Washington's Senators defeat Boston's Red Sox, 4 to 1.

Chandler arrived twenty minutes before game time, visited both dugouts, autographed balls, posed for news reel and cameramen, and sat in the Presidential box with owner Clark Griffith of the Senators.

The Red Sox, losing their seventh straight, had numerous scoring opportunities on 10 hits, but could do little with John Niggeling's knuckle ball in the pinches.

SINGLE BEATS INDIANS

Cleveland, April 26 (AP)—Nelson Potter rapped a game-winning single in the ninth inning today scoring Len Schulte from second to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the lone game of a three-game series. The second half of a scheduled twin bill was postponed because of rain.

Potter held the Indians to seven scattered singles while yielding five walks for his first victory of the season. Al Smith, Tribe southpaw, held the American League champions to five hits in seven innings but tired rapidly in the eighth and ninth.

Vernon Stephens led the Brownie attack with a home run and single followed by one-armed Pete Gray and Schulte with two bingles each. Fat Pat Seerey paced the Tribe with two base hits in four attempts.

Manager Of Tigers In Hospital; Hasn't Seen Team Win Yet

BY FRANK KENESSON

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—Though his Detroit Tigers grabbed four of their first six games this season in the American League, Manager Stephen Francis O'Neill, hospitalized with a foot ailment, hasn't seen them win a league game this year.

O'Neill watched the Tigers drop their opening game to the Browns in St. Louis, then entrained for Detroit to enter Henry Ford hospital for treatment of a form of gout in his right foot. Since April 19 the 53-year-old, curly-haired Detroit pilot has had his baseball served him by radio.

O'Neill, entering his third managerial season here, hopes to rejoin the club during its May home stay.

A similar attack of gout several ago had him on the shelf for five weeks.

From his hospital bed, O'Neill showed no inclination to worry about the fate of the Bengals in his absence.

"They'll do all right; they're in good hands," was his comment.

The "good hands" are acting manager Paul Richards, for five years catcher-manager of the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern association, and Coach Art Mills, O'Neill's only full-time aide.

Richards and Mills take turns in the third base coaching box, where O'Neill figures to work on his return. First base coaches have been Harvey (Hub) Walker, utility outfielder with 15 years of organized baseball behind him, and Pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout.

Pitcher Ruffus Gentry, 26-year-old righthander from Daisy Station, N. C., remains the Tigers' only protracted holdout . . . General Manager Jack Zeller has warned that the 12-game winner of 1944 "won't go on the payroll until he gets into his first game" . . . washout of an entire three-game series with the White Sox at Chicago hastened the recovery of shortstop Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb, who has been nursing a pulled muscle in his side . . . in their first six games the Tigers sported three different shortstops —Webb, Joe Hoover and Ed Borom . . . removal of a screen in front of the lower right field stands in Briggs stadium promises no sharp increase in homer production . . . General Manager Jack Zeller insists that only two balls were hit against the net in 1944—balls that would be home runs now with the screen removed.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, remember that place up in the mountains where we went trout fishing last year?"

"I sure do, George. We had a great time up there, didn't we?"

"I'll never forget it. But this will interest you, Judge. I heard just yesterday that the revenue men raided a big still right near there. Guess that's where all that high-priced moonshine we heard about has been coming from."

"Wouldn't be a bit surprised. I saw in the paper the other day where the Government has raided thousands of such stills during the past year."

"Sounds sort of reminiscent, doesn't it, Judge?"

"Exactly and it's not hard to figure out. As soon as the distillers stopped making whiskey and devoted their entire facilities to the production of industrial alcohol for the Government . . . the racketeers muscled in again."

"I hate to think of how that might have spread, Judge, if the Government hadn't found it possible, without interfering with our war effort in any way, to permit a short resumption of legal whiskey production recently."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Hilda Mattson, who passed away April 23, 1944.

There are some who miss you sadly,
And find the time long since you went,
There are some who think of you always,
And try to be brave and content.
one is the face we loved so dear;
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.

Sadly missed by her husband, children and grandchildren.

Attempt Gas Theft; Arrest Four Youths

Four Escanaba youths, three 16 and one 17 years of age, yesterday confessed to police they had attempted to siphon gasoline from the automobile of Fred Peltier Wednesday night.

A complaint against the youths was made in juvenile court and they will be arraigned before Judge William Miller.

Police reported that at 10 p.m. Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peltier drove their car into a garage in the alley south of Ludington street in the 1500 block. As they sat in the car two youths came into the garage and removed the gas cap from the car.

Interupted in the attempted gas theft, the boys ran, leaving a gas can and their car parked in the alley. Police took the car, owned by the mother of one of the youths, to the police station. Identity of the youths was determined through ownership of the car.

Every 40 minutes a murder is committed in the United States.
